SUBJECT: Fiscal Year (FY) 2005 Fuel Price Increase

Continued fuel price increases have resulted in losses in the Defense Logistics Agency, Defense-Wide Working Capital Fund in excess of funding identified in the Department's Supplemental budget request. While crude oil prices have receded slightly in the last week, the Department of Energy is projecting that crude prices will remain above $50.00 per barrel for the rest of FY 2005 and FY 2006.

In view of the cash posture of the Defense-Wide Working Capital Fund and the present price of fuel, the FY 2005 fuel standard price is increased to $73.08 per barrel, to be effective June 1, 2005. The attachment to this memorandum provides a breakdown of the revised fuel prices by fuel type.

The customer impact of this action has been reviewed during the FY 2005 midyear review.

John P. Roth
Deputy Comptroller
